DEFENSE

Information included in this topic may or may not directly relate to the traditional thinking on emergency preparedness, however if you should find yourself in a sudden self defense situation, trust me, that is an emergency we should be prepared to deal with. Avoidance is the best option, but if you find yourself faced with danger, sometimes doing nothing and being a witness will get you through. But if you should find yourself in a position where you and your loved-ones are in imminent danger, are you prepared to defend yourself?

Having a gun at home gives you a huge responsibility to use it wisely in difficult moments. If you wake up in the middle of the night to the sound of someone breaking in, then your heart is sure to start racing while you try to work out what to do. By doing some advance research into the legal matters, and considering your own moral stance on this issue, you can feel ready to face up this challenging moment if it ever arrives. Don't wait until the heat of the moment before you think about your rights and responsibilities as a gun owner.
